About us

Saga Kids is a global imprint of digital children's books. Our purpose is to inspire a lifelong love of reading from a very young age.

Whether they're looking for fairy tales, mysteries, love stories, adventure, sci-fi, superheros, non-fiction, or even yoga and meditation, we have a book for every child.

We belong to a charitable foundation where bringing children's stories to life is part of our DNA. As part of the Egmont Foundation, Saga Kids reinvests all of our profits into building great media and supporting vulnerable children, young people and families.

Our audiobooks and e-books can be enjoyed on all major international and local digital book platforms, to stream and to download. You can find our stories on Audible, Storytel, Spotify, Nextory, BookBeat, Google Play, Kindle Store, Apple iBooks Store and many more.

Manifesto

We publish audiobooks and e-books spanning multiple languages and cultures, and our mission is to spark joy and create space for imagination, fun, excitement, playful learning and adventures through literature well-suited for kids and families.

We curate a catalogue of the best children's books with the intention to empower and enlighten all children.

We publish children's books which are inclusive. We embrace diversity, different cultures, different languages and different realities. We know that every child has their own perspective on life, and we want to make room for all perspectives as equals – across ages, backgrounds and genders.

We think that literature is a great and crucial part of life, and we want all children to be able to access the books of great authors, set in exciting universes. We want to set children's literature free; we want children's books to be heard and read across the globe. This is why we believe in the digital format. A great children's book is, in its essence, a story that comes across in accessible formats.
